Passau - Symposium

Information

Description

This year, the Passau section of the symposium series will explore how social memory theory can contribute to the study of particular texts. After a first roundtable with experts on both memory theory and ancient texts, three workshops will be dedicated to reading samples of ancient bioi with different sets of questions, exploring and comparing context, structure, motifs and pragmatics of the texts. The goal is to go beyond mere structural comparisons and alleged "parallels" and discuss both reading techniques and results of historical-critical, rhetorical and memory approaches.

Venue

Department of Catholic Theology:
Seminar room 43
